

As the Chinese government prepares to parade the Olympic torch through Tibet, nuns, monks, and Tibetan families inside Tibet continue to be arrested, detained and otherwise intimidated for expressing their desire for human rights and freedom.

As an official sponsor of China's global torch relay and one of the largest corporations in the world, Coke's executives can use their influence to pressure the International Olympic Committee (IOC) to cancel the Tibet leg of the torch relay.

As a signatory to the UN Global Compact, Coke has promised to "support and respect the protection of international human rights within their sphere of influence; and make sure that they are not complicit in human rights abuses." Sponsoring the torch relay in Tibet, while the Chinese government takes every possible measure to ensure a successful propaganda exercise, will inevitably make Coke complicit in China's violent repression of Tibetans.

Please join Tibetans and people of conscience around the world and demand that Coke tell the IOC to immediately halt plans to take the torch to Tibet in June.

Call COKE 1-888-272-COKE. Tell them to do the right thing.
